

SERVICES TO BUSINESS GUIDE

2013

Last updated September 2013

Services to Business

The Services to Business Guide is designed to assist library staff in providing support to new and small businesses in their community. Whether individuals are self-employed, start-up entrepreneurs, small office/home office (SOHO) business owners, a rural entrepreneur, an Aboriginal person, youth, woman, newcomer to Canada or a person with a disability who wants to start a business, they will all benefit from the help and resources available at their local library through the ease of access to online government services and in-house resources for business.

This Guide provides an overview of the basic steps required in starting a business and it highlights government and library resources available to assist entrepreneurs in Ontario. Information is organized in the guide into three sections that support start-up business owners:

- Section One highlights Internet & Print Business Resources that entrepreneurs can use to meet their informational needs and work through at their own pace. Resources in this section are organized along the essential steps to starting a business venture.
- Section Two lists key Government and Community Business Centres by city where new businesses can seek expert advice and additional resources either by walking-in or over the phone.
- Section Three provides information on Government Call Centres that can answer business-related questions at no cost and help entrepreneurs access the information and services they require.

Key government services to business are indicated, while additional business resources are also provided to facilitate an understanding of what is required when starting a new business. The information is geared toward opening a new business in Ontario, though many resources will also be helpful for existing small businesses in the province.

The local public library is a great place to visit when starting a business. Libraries already have many resources on how to start and run a business. Patrons may be directed to the Library's Reference and Non-Fiction Section and advised to begin by searching terms such as entrepreneur, small business, or management. Often Libraries group their business related materials together in one section.

Starting a business is no small feat. It takes a lot of time and effort to seriously research and plan a business. This Guide provides a starting point for start-up entrepreneurs to address the most immediate needs when thinking about, or forming a new business. The resources listed are in no way a comprehensive list, but rather a place to start from and expand depending on the needs of each entrepreneur.

Public and First Nations Libraries

More topic-specific resources follow in this section, organized by the essential steps to starting a business venture in Ontario. Online and Print resources for government services, programs, and transactions are highlighted, while additional supporting resources are also provided that aid in an understanding of the government requirements and services for starting a business. Please note that the suggested books are purely that; "suggested".

Public and First Nations Libraries have a wealth of business-related books, periodicals, trade indexes, journals and databases currently in its collection as well as available through inter-library loans.

THE CONCEPT STAGE

At this point, there is no business as yet. A future business owner may have an idea about starting a business, but may or may not have a clear vision of what that business will look like. In order to proceed, an idea must be well-researched, analyzed and refined to determine the potential viability of the proposed business.

STEP 1: EVALUATE YOUR IDEAS, ABILITIES AND EXPERIENCE

Before spending time, energy, and financial resources on starting a business, it is important to take the time to evaluate both your readiness as an entrepreneur and the viability of your business idea. Anyone thinking about going into business should consider not only what they are passionate about doing, but also what skills and capabilities they have as well as the experience they have to contribute to a successful initiative.

The following section contains quizzes, articles, and checklists to help potential entrepreneurs evaluate their ideas as well as their aptitude for business.

THE RESEARCH AND PLANNING STAGE

In this stage, the business is still not operating. Research and planning are necessary and may last anywhere from a few weeks to several months as a future business owner takes the time to conduct market research and develop a sound business plan.

Market research will involve researching possible names for the business, determining the legal structure, gathering information about the industry, the competition and the target market (customer); investigating any costs associated with equipment, leasehold improvements, office furnishings and inventory and locating a possible facility if required as well as evaluating financial resources.

Developing a Business Plan is the next step, especially if it is necessary to secure funding and/or lease a facility.

STEP 2: MARKET RESEARCH & PLANNING

Market research is invaluable in determining your idea's potential. You can gather information from industry associations, Web searches, periodicals and federal and provincial agencies. A new business will want to do some preliminary reading about starting a small business, including the important start-up phase. Find the top business books in the local library and read at least three of them. Time spent at the library looking at books, periodicals and articles or on databases available through KnowledgeOntario online can set you on your way to really understanding your market.

Market research is necessary to demonstrate that a market exists for a potential business venture. Primary research such as surveys, interviews and focus groups can help build a customer profile of consumer preferences and buying habits. Secondary research such as industry profiles and demographic statistics will help to assess the competition.

The following resources link to statistical, demographic and market information as well as tips for conducting primary research.

STEP 3: GET BUSINESS ASSISTANCE AND TRAINING

Business advisors, coaches and workshops are available to help create the crucial business plan required before embarking on any start-up venture. The business plan refines a business idea and ultimately should demonstrate that the proposed business has a place in the market and will be profitable. This step is a prerequisite for seeking financial assistance or investors and should include plans for marketing, human resources, operations and finances.

Access to Business Advisors is also available through Federal, Provincial, Municipal and Community Business Centres. New businesses should refer to Section Two of this Guide to find local Business Advisors, Coaches and workshops closest to them.

Business assistance and training can take many forms and should be tailored based on individual needs. The following resources contain several self-directed learning opportunities as well as information on more formal education programs for business operations. Templates for business plans, online info-guides, and an interactive planner are also found here.

STEP 5: FINANCE YOUR BUSINESS

Financing for a new business may come from a variety of sources: banks and financial institutions, personal lines of credit, partners and investors, micro-credit lenders and venture capitalists. Federal, Provincial and some local governments also offer financing programs to help small businesses start and grow their operations.

Programs in Ontario include: The Canada Small Business Financing Program, the Business Development Bank of Canada, Innovation Financing Solution, The Ontario Community Futures Development Corporations, the Summer Company Program for Youth, and the Canadian Youth Business Foundation Loan Program. Some entrepreneurs may also be eligible for Ontario Self-Employment Benefit while starting a business. More information on these and other government financing services and information can be found in the following section.

There are many financial options available and may be researched to suit individual needs. Funding programs for specific types of entrepreneurs, such as youth, women, Newcomers to Canada and Aboriginal entrepreneurs are also listed in this guide under the "Types of Entrepreneurs" section.

STEP 6: DETERMINE THE LEGAL REQUIREMENTS AND STRUCTURE OF YOUR BUSINESS

A new business owner must decide on a form of business ownership whether it be a sole proprietorship, a partnership, a corporation, a non-profit or a cooperative. There are advantages and disadvantages to each form of organization, and new businesses must evaluate which structure best suits their needs. The form of business will determine the amount of government regulations for reporting, liability, and taxation.

The resources below define the different business arrangements legally recognized and can assist entrepreneurs in determining the legal structure and requirements of their business.

STEP 8: REGISTER FOR PROVINCIAL AND FEDERAL TAXES

If you own and operate a business in Canada, you need to know about the goods and services tax (GST) and the harmonized sales tax (HST).

New businesses may have to collect the goods and services tax (GST) and the retail sales tax (RST) (also known as the PST) on the goods or services they offer. Most businesses are required to register for GST, though some exceptions apply to certain small businesses whose total taxable revenues before expenses are less than $30,000 per year.

Any business that sells a product or provides a service that installs or maintains a product must charge RST/PST, but again there are exceptions. To determine if a business must charge RST/PST, contact the Ontario Ministry of Revenue at 1 866 668-8297.

Please note that a single sales tax has been proposed. Starting July 1, 2010, Ontario's Retail Sales Tax (RST) will be converted to a value-added tax structure and combined with the federal Goods and Services Tax (GST) to create a federally administered single sales tax. The single sales tax will have a combined tax rate of 13 per cent. The provincial portion would be eight per cent — the same as the general RST rate — and the federal portion would be five per cent.

The following resources link to online registration systems for taxes as well as information to assist new business owners in understanding taxation in Ontario. Entrepreneurs can register with the province through ServiceOntario to obtain a tax identification number, workers' compensation, unemployment and disability insurance. ONT-TAXS is an online service to file, pay, update and view Ontario business taxes.

STEP 9: OBTAIN BUSINESS LICENSES AND PERMITS

A new or expanding business often requires one or more federal, provincial and local license or permit to operate in Ontario.

Licenses can range from a basic operating license to industry-specific permits, and will depend on the type of business the future business owner plans to start. Regulations vary by industry, province and locality, so it is important to research what may be required for any new venture.

STEP 10: EMPLOYER RESPONSIBILITIES

As a new employer you will have certain statutory obligations. This means that you are required by law to do certain things and behave towards your employees in certain ways. There are regulatory requirements that apply when hiring and firing employees.

Employers should be familiar with the Workplace Safety and Insurance Act, the Occupational Health and Safety Act, and the Ontario Employment Standards Act. Other considerations are Accessibility Standards, making deductions on behalf of employees for the Canada Pension Plan, Employment Insurance and Taxes and filing T4 slips.

THE BUSINESS LAUNCH STAGE

By now, all of the necessary preparation has been completed for the new business. The name of the business has been registered; the company has been incorporated (optional); the Business Plan has been written; funding has been secured (if necessary); facilities have been secured and leasehold improvements made (if required); equipment has been purchased or leased; suppliers have been identified; opening inventory is on site; and employees have been hired and trained; marketing plans have been developed and are ready to be implemented..

The business owner is ready to open their door. This is now a business.

This next stage is all about strengthening business operations through effective marketing strategies, making use of the Internet and technology and networking to grow and strengthen the business.

STEP 11: MARKET AND SELL

A directed marketing strategy contributes to the successful launch of a new business by effectively targeting potential customers/clients. While this can have a creative component, it is important to remember that any marketing activities or promotion must comply with standards set by Industry Canada.

Consult this section for tips on creating a marketing approach for a new business and on how to developing marketing plans.
